Being the Sixth of a Series of Articles on Military Subjects.

Best is an imperative necessity of war The principle of relaxation presides ever the fortunes of the battle-field quite as much as the principle of wetchfulness or duty. You must rest if you would fight.

The camp, thu bivonec, the piled arms, ten thousand silent forms in the glimmer of the watch firee are features which must not be left out of any true pieture of active not be left out of any true pietare of active serrice. Thesefore, do not ensore at the dictate, "Stand at Easet!" It is as im-portant in its own place as any other com-mand. Neither allow it to be expected that in the issuing of it there is anything inconsistent with genuine soldiery. The practiced general well recognizes that in addition to the enumy opposing him there is a foest work among his legion, called fasigne. Cit data flos, too, be must lowere. The mneket is not more powerful than the hand that grasps it; the aim is no eteadier than the eye that fixes it; the charge no more bril-liant than the nerve which prompts it; and the endurance is no longer than the physical force which renders it possible. What, therefore, administers to the strength

What, therefore, administers to the strength of the soldier, contributes to the effectivences of the soldier's warfare.

Residency is an essential of the body. You must rest if you would like. A reckless use of the physical powers without a dear regard to the laws by which they are fed and fortified, would be simply usuidal. Exart the brain unromittingly, lot the presidence. Exert the brain unromittingly, let the presence of work or of adverse circumstances compel it to remnin sotive when it abound he recurperating its powers: coder such conditions the machinery of the intellect becomes disordered, and the thought producing power of the brain, robbed of its natural injunishment.

Dwindles and Dies.

To live for a little while on capital, which, if wicely invested, would yield in interest a far larger and more useful existence, is extreme felly. By n macriful providence, overything that has life is all but compelled to rest nt intervals, from its labors. God has made it hard for men to die, as without restriction they vary soon would, of their own restless ambitions.

Agein, rest is n necessity of exciety. Ged has creating it that men should sleep, so well as toll and suffer. The rush of life and the rost of the senses go side by side. and the roat of the senses go side by side.

A general bembardment of the city will take place on Sonday, Dec-11th. The Turento forts will be commanded by the Headquarters and Divisional Staff. Staff-Captain Bollon was at Headquarters on important bosiness during the week, and gave a very encouraging report of the war in the Kingston Division.

Staff-Captain Beatty also turned up, evidently suffering from "grip," or a levere cold, or something else.

Capt. Yorke conducted the funeral service of Mrs. Pigeon. There was a large attendance. An account of her life and promotion will appear next week.

Matter still continues to come in for the Kmas Cav. Some very special end unique features will be adopted and no pains spared to make it a standard number.

The great matters of the hour are the Self Denial Fund and the Anniversary Meetings, Both take up the time and attention of some of the departments at Headquarters. THANKS.

HOLINESS.

I With a surrow for ain let repentance begin But till washed in the blood of a Lord. You will naver be ready to dis.

Oh. I'm happy all the day, Since He washed my sine away. And I never mean to grieve lilm any more, For the Saviour He has washed me In His all-stouling blood, And I kepe to me Him washing many more

And that you may succeed, hurry up with all speed;
To a Saviour Who will not deny;
Tell Him plainly in brief, that for sin you fee

But you long to be ready to die.

We've His word and His oath, and His blood scale them both. And we've sure the Almighty can't He, B you do not delay, but repeat while you may He will seen make you ready to die.

When the light we have done, and the vice won, We to mencions of glory shall fly; There eternally grains the blest Ancien for His love made us ready to die.

It is the blood that washer white, That makes me pure within, That heaps the invest witness right, That cleanage from all sin. CHORES

Oh, the blood to me so dear, Saving now from guilt and hear, Cleaning now my heart within, Making free from self and sin.

It is the blood that sweeps away
The power of Seinn's rod,
That snows the new and living way
That leads to haven and God.

It is the bleed that opened wide God's full salvation gate; The bleed that turned the vall soids. To show the hojiest state. It is the blood that brings us nigh. To beliness and heaven, The source of victory and joy; God's life for reints given,

SALVATION.

With blood and fire, with faith and faciling

Oh, wonderful bealing. That Joses efree to me!

Oh, wanderful power, That Jeeus gives to me!

soLo.

Oh, me, there's suching more I seek.
With Justa erre near;
My lies I feel, are thall be speak.
His love to me so dear.
From day to day He strengthens me
With never incling grace;

Fm satisfied with Jesus here, He's everything to me; His dying love has won my inear; And new He sets me free,

They bid me seek the world's dalleist,
The sharms that others are;
Ent what to me is change of sight,
While Joses dwelle with me?
The tree that I beheld them ence,
You sever issued weller,
and though they we from me a taille,
and though they was from me a taille,
My hour war full of grief.

For all I there are so many things Benall His lares to me: He weeked away my meany size With His own blood as from. The pride their reigned within my has My seven schallman will, and every swit thought and wich Hes weekends at the will.
